CAN YOU LIVE TO BE 125?

TOP HARVARD RESEARCHERS SAY IT'S POSSIBLE!

Researchers at the Harvard Medical School and the National Institute on Aging have identified a substance found in red wine that appears to slow the aging process, similar to the practice of calorie restriction. It's called Resveratrol, and already, drug companies are spending hundreds of millions of dollars to create prescription drugs that offer the promising benefits of this natural extract. But why starve yourself or wait for an expensive drug when this naturally occurring substance is available today as a dietary supplement?

Over 2,800 Scientific Studies

In vitro and in vivo research studies with lab animals using Resveratrol have shown significant increases in energy, weight loss, and longevity. Longevity studies on humans will obviously require years, but preliminary studies on humans are very encouraging. Dr. David Sinclair, who discovered Resveratrol's impact on aging, called it "the Holy Grail of aging research." "Nothing even comes close to Resveratrol," says Tom Mower, Sr. who calls Resveratrol "the single greatest discovery in the history of supplements."

Scientists worldwide recognize that oxidative free radicals are virulent in damaging cellular DNA, making it difficult for correct DNA duplication. Science shows that Resveratrol is one of the best free-radical scavengers available. These studies indicate that Resveratrol not only supports longevity by gene activation, but also imparts DNA protection in several body systems. The cardiovascular system, nervous system, and immune system functions all seem to be improved by Resveratrol. It has also been shown to modulate normal inflammatory response.

As Seen on 60 Minutes & Nightline

The media is buzzing about this astounding discovery. Dr. Sinclair and his partner, Dr. Christoph Westphal, have shared their findings with the likes of Morley Safer, Barbara Walters, Diane Sawyer, and Charlie Rose. The doctors' assertions that Resveratrol could "significantly extend life by preventing a number of age-related illnesses" and "extend healthy life span", have led these reporters to consider the possibilities of "an extra decade or two of healthy old age", "living well past the age of 100", or "resetting our biological clock".

The SISEL Eternity Advantage

Eternity is Resveratrol done right. SISEL's patent pending, highly fortified, nano-sized, liquid formula is designed to increase Resveratrol's absorption by as much as 250 times over encapsulated Resveratrol.*

Not all Resveratrol supplements are the same. Resveratrol comes in two forms: cis- and trans-isomers. Cis is inert and ineffective, whereas trans is active. Eternity uses 98-99% pure trans Resveratrol from the best sources, both red grape skins and Japanese knotweed.

Resveratrol alone is not enough. Additional research on the health benefits of red wine have shown that Resveratrol by itself does not fully explain the French Paradox and indicates that other key ingredients may work in synergy with Resveratrol to increase its effectiveness. Eternity's patent pending blend of Resveratrol plus quercetin, catechins, and other polyphenols react with an array of genes to maximize the full effects of their energetic, youth-extending possibilities.*

It's not what you eat, but what you absorb that matters. The Resveratrol dosages in many of the available supplements are not even close to the concentration necessary for the results attained in the research studies. In clinical studies, most Resveratrol taken orally is readily metabolized in the intestines and liver, so very little unchanged Resveratrol ever gets into the bloodstream. Eternity's proprietary liquid delivery system is designed to protect it through the entire digestive process and greatly enhance its absorption into the very cells that utilize it. SISEL researchers believe holding Eternity in your mouth for 60 seconds will greatly increase its absorption and bioavailability to the cells.*
